POGROMS IN RUSSIA SANCTIONED BY THE GENERAL STAFF, IS CHARGE

Editor of "The Day."

Spondent of THE SUN and the Day which were published last week contained an account of his observations in the course of his travels and investigations in the Russo-Polis's provinces and Galicia for the past four months. He charged that the Russian Government has systematically organized a conspiracy against the Jewish people during the war as an apology for various military defeats, that anti-Semitism is being spread in war time in the armies and among the masses, that the Polish population has been incited against the ews and that certain elements of the Polish population have in turn been inciting the Russian troops against the Jews, that entire Jewish communities have been mercilessly driven from their home towns by the authorities. that thousands upon thousands of Jews have been plundered, outraged, hanged or shot and that a libellous and cruel legend is being circulated widely to the effect that the Jews are betraying Russia to the German Government—this at a time when more than 400,000 Jewish soldiers, constituting an army larger than the entire army of Beigium, are shedding their blood for Russia.

Prince Paul Dolgorukov in a stateent in the Russkiya Vedomosti, one of Russia's leading newspapers, said: "Hundreds of thousands of Jews are chedding their blood for the grandeur of Russia, and in the meantime they are deprived of the tights of which no Russian subject can be deprived othervise than by a court and as a punish-ment for a crime. • • Many thousands of wounded Jews are now scattered all over Russia, including cities outside the pale. Their relatives cannot be with them, or even visit them for a short time. And if a Jewish soldier dies his relatives are deprived of the possibility of paying him their last tribute, or else they must violate the law and reside secretly without being registered."

That the higher Russian authorities are directly responsible for circulating the stories and legends about Jewish treason" may be gathered from the following document issued on December 2, 1914, by Gen. Bobir:

authorities realized that the new epidemic might attack the soldiers too. So they established a kitchen to provide 250 portions of food daily. Among the Christians and soldiers remaining 150 were thrown out every day. Not a piece of bread, not a drop of hot water was offered to the hungry Jews. Every day they threw away quantities of food and would not give a crust to the Jews, who were dying of hunger.

They kept creating sentiment against the Jews and inciting each other more and more. In the meantime the great blow came which brought the Russian army nearer to Warsaw, on the other side of the Bzura. The retreating Russian army made a pogrom in the city of Sachatshev. Only a few hundred paces from the spot where the Jewish relief corps but a few days before had worked self-sacrificingly, calling forth rom all so much admiration and acimplishing so much out of sheer devotion, the Russian soldiers were permitted to plunder a city where there were some 1,300 Jewish families.

The soldiers broke into the houses of the Jews, stole their belongings, ruined their property and beat them brutally. Ten Jews were hanged because they were accused of helping the Germans.
